When will the payment order be executed?

A payment order will be executed on the day of receipt or on the memo date.

ING will debit the customer account on day of execution D with value date D except if the customer has specific conditions regarding value dating for International Payments. In this case ING will apply the conditions negotiated by the customer with the bank.

The following table shows when the amount of the payment will be at the disposal of our correspondent bank. How to read the table?

The column 'To be received by ING before XX:XX hours on D (Day)' shows the latest time ING must have received the payment order to guarantee we can respect the column 'At the disposal of correspondent bank'.

After this time the payment will still be processed immediately, but might be at the disposal of the correspondent bank one working day later.

Option: Urgent payment

The "urgent" option is available for International Payments, for a fee, and has as effect on the payment to decrease the value date "At disposal of correspondent bank" by one working day.

Example: if the value date for a USD payment is D+2 with the urgent option it becomes D+1.
